DIGNITY OF THE LOWER HOUSE

IT IS DISTURBED BY FREAK BILLS AND AN ADJOURNMENT IS TAKEN IN THE MIDST OF MANY PROTESTS.

In the afternoon session yesterday the House referred the bill for an agricultural college to the committee on education. The act to appropriate $2,000 for stamps for lepers was deferred to be taken up with the regular appropriation bill. House bill number 3, relating to the election of corporation trustees, was passed. It provides that none but bona fide stockholders of a corporation may hold proxies to vote at annual meetings, and that transfers of stock must be made at least fifteen days before such meetings. House bill number 78, amending the measure which passed the last legislature exempting wages from execution, passed second reading.

Kellinot brought up a resolution allowing the use of the hall next Sunday, for the remains of the late Prince Kuniakia to lie in state. Aylett proposed that the members of the House be ordered to attend in a body, and Wright said that, as the last of the Kamehamehas, the deceased should be shown every respect and should be buried from the building which was the royal palace. The matter was laid over for consideration today.

Lewis introduced a resolution to investigate the Hackfeld wharf proposition and it was tabled to be considered in connection with the Governor's message on the subject.

The session came to an end with a notice for the introduction of an act to prohibit cats from making noise at night, an act to license the sale of liquor in churches, an act to increase immorality, and other similar bills. A motion to adjourn was carried in the midst of a number of protests that the notice was out of order and was in contempt of the House, and some of the members left declaring they would start an investigation to find out the source of the notice.

COMMENTS AND EXCERPTS.

The judgment of a New York court, which gave a little girl $12,000 damages for the loss of an arm, is somewhat different from that of a California court which decided that $5,000 was excessive damages for the death of a poor man's child.

The London local government board report that in 1902 there were 105,860 paupers in the British capital. The proportion of paupers to the general population, however, was lower in that year than in any preceding twelve-month since 1862, excepting only 1900 and 1901.

RARE COINS.

A number of rare coins were recently stolen from the museum of coins and medals at Marseilles for the sake of the gold and silver they contained. The thieves will probably realize only a few dollars from the melting down of pieces valued by collectors at hundreds of times the worth stamped on them.
